

"St. Andrew's Hospice was the only place my Dad wanted to be with his cancer. The lovely care meant so much to us all."

Linda

Many years after Linda's Dad walked her down the 'aisle' in Barbados, he was cared for by the hospice during the last days of his life.

"It is a blessing to work within the hospice environment. This blessing begins a chain of generosity, connecting God to humanity and humanity to one another."

Sister Catherine Egan

St. Andrew's Hospice (Lanarkshire) is a charity registered in Scotland, No SC010159

Our promises about Gifts in Wills

1. We promise not to intrude on your privacy by telephoning you about this way of giving.
2. We will never ask you the size or type of legacy if you decide to support our work this way.
3. We absolutely recognise that those close to you come first in your Will.
4. We fully understand that personal circumstances change and there might be a time when you must take St. Andrew's Hospice out of your Will.
5. We promise to use your gift wisely for the benefit of future generations.

How you can share the precious gift of living for today

Your Will helps patients and those who love them to treasure all the life that is still to be lived

When every day is a treasure, it's the little things that count. The hugs hello and goodbye. The tea served with a smile, the assurance of the doctors, the gentle skills of the nurses. An ice-lolly on a hot day, a blanket and hot chocolate when it's cold.

In the hospice or at home, everyone has someone to get them through good days and bad. To ease their fears and do everything to give them what they need.

Love living? Love caring? You are a treasure in your local community.

A gift in your Will helps someone in the care of St. Andrew's Hospice to live all the life that is still to be lived. To cherish their unique life, with dignity, until the very end. You will help make a lifetime of precious memories. A day to share something good, to do something with meaning, to be cared for and respected, to live with dignity and choice. A day that is life still be lived.

"Dad loved choosing his favourite music to play in his room. It was as close to home as it could be."

Linda
Her Dad, Archie, was cared for by the hospice .

"I have found a place in my Will as a way of saying 'Thank You'. And they are still in touch with me - I go there, feel the comfort and feel close to my lovely Lorraine."

Aldo
Aldo's wife, Lorraine, died at the hospice 13 years ago.

You are the dignity to cherish until the very end

When you choose to leave a gift in your Will, you are part of the blanket of compassion around patients and loved ones.

Each week 120 Lanarkshire people at the very least, seek the comfort and care of St. Andrew's Hospice. And they are not only patients. Wives, husbands, grandparents, grown-up children, little children. Anyone feeling alone or lost in the whirlwind of knowing that death is coming, can drop in, call or email.

Through your Will you are a big part of the care before, during and after the last months, weeks or days.

Changing your Will to include a gift to St. Andrew's Hospice is not a costly nor difficult thing to do. Just get in touch with your solicitor. You will feel the joy and contentment of leaving a last gift that will be treasured by everyone in our Lanarkshire community.
